Philosophy and Approach: I believe the ways in which we think, feel, and respond are often shaped by our experiences. What once helped us adapt can eventually create difficulties in our lives and relationships. At times, we can lose our sense of self while meeting the demands of work, family, or other systems. I integrate Cognitive Behavioral Therapy (CBT), Experiential and Solution-Focused Therapy to help clients understand these patterns, expand their perspective, leverage strengths, and make intentional changes. My approach is individualized to each client's needs and goals. Therefore, I may incorporate additional therapeutic approaches when clinically appropriate. I view therapy as an opportunity to reconnect with who you are and create new experiences that allow you to live and relate to others with greater authenticity, clarity, and choice.

Formal Education & Training: I hold a master's degree in marriage, couple, and family therapy from Lewis & Clark College. In my previous career, I worked as a professional firefighter/paramedic and served as a U.S. Army medic.

As a Registered Associate with the Oregon Board of Licensed Professional Counselors and Therapists (Board), I abide by its Code of Ethics. I am supervised by Justin Rock, a Licensed Marriage and Family Therapist, Licensed Professional Counselor. Information regarding my supervision is available upon request.

Fees: The initial 30-minute consultation is complimentary. Individual counseling is $200 for a 60-minute session or $250 for a 90-minute session. Couples/Family counseling for adults, 18 years of age and older, is $250 for a 60-minute session or $300 for a 90-minute session. Payment is accepted by VISA, Mastercard, American Express, Discover, debit cards, or electronic bank transfers (ACH).
